HISTORY.

This Remedy is compased of the active is principle of the Unk Weed, Eng.—Theselon I Cordatum Originis, Lat.—Indigenous to Oregon. Grows most abundantly and gentle in Washington Co. PROPERTIES, Etc.

It contains an ACTIVE VOLATILE Prince ple, extracted by Ether, and a bitter TONID Principle, soluble in Alcohol.

Medical Properties and Uses. It is the most sure and speedy cure for Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout and Rheumatic Pains of all kinds that was ever introduced in the Materia Medica. THE UNK WERI REMEDY, as prepared by us, in consequence of the existing bitter principle, possesses the necessary virtue of being a POWERFUL TONIC, remoting the Appetite and Invigorating the whole Digestive Apparatus, thus Building and and Strengthening the system, while at the same time the volatile principle, being ab-aorbed in the blood, acts specifically on the Rheumatic Poison, removing it from the cir-ulation and system. There are a few remedies known to the Medical Profession which will remove the action is so powerful in depressing the system of the already enfectled Kheumatic patient, that their use has to be abandoned before specific effects are obtainable, hence the want of success in treating this prevalent, and in consequence beretofore incurable disease. Unlike these Medicines, already heretefere have been unsuccessful as to results; neither books, papers, nor persons enlighten me in the least. I am therefore driven to adopt a plan which I know to be irregular, but which, considering circumstances, is the only feasible means open to me. If you think proper to give me the information I desire, you will confer a favor which I can duly appreciate. I think of making Vancouver Island the home of myself and family, and naturally wish to know some. and family, and naturally wish to know somenation I seek may be tabu'ated as follows:

Ma. Epiron:—When men seek information

-lam yours respectfully, edi " REMARES The above is but a sample ofommunications frequently addressed to us for information concerning this Province, by persons desirous of acquiring a knowledge of the country with a view to settlement therein, should the information sought justify them in so doing. There is evidentin the Eastern Provinces to learn more about the climate and the natural resources of this country, and it is therefore with pleasure we respond to the wish of our correspondent, and shall as briefly as possible, and in the order he has put them, reply to the questions he has propounded It will be observed that the writer has confined his inquiries to Vancouver Island, -but as we presume he means nbia, of which Vancouver Island constitutes but a very small portion, we stall treat the subject in refer ence to the Province as a whole, which we doubt not will be more acceptable, as well as more generally useful, than if we were to confine our remarks to the narrow limits of Vancouver Island. 1. The general condition of the climate? On Vancouver island the climate is temperate, never subject to those extremes of heat and cold which characterize the climate of Ontario or the other Eastern Provinces. The summer sea ons are dry, the winter reasons wet, varied with light frosts and sometimes snow, which seldom Tatla Landing, Omineca. remains on the ground more than a few days at a time. On the mainland for some few miles up the valley of the Fraser River the climate resembles that at Vancouver Island, but as you ascend further into the interior the climate more resembles that of Ontario, both summer and winter, until the district of Cariboo is reached, where the summers are shorter and the vinters lenger and colder than in Canada. 2. The quality of the soil generally? The quality of the soil is variable, but much of it is exceedingly fertile and well adapt ed for agricultural and pastoral purposes Take the Province as a whole and it cannot be said to be an arrical and it cannot be said to be an agricultural country; but it nevertheless contains large tructs of prairie and rich alluvial bottom lands, well adapted for agricultural purposes, which when taken up and utilised will be amply sufficient to supply the wante of milion people. Agriculture is yet in its infancy, but we are assured that in the upper Fraser country alone last year more than a thousand tons of wheat, equal to about ten thous and barrels of flour, were raised, and of a quality equal to any in the world.

Barley and oats are also largely grown,

Barley and oats are also largely grown,

SEALED TENDERS ADDRESSED TO Geo. Watt, Commissariat Officer, will be received at the Canadian Pacific Rallway Office, Victoria, urtil noon of the 20th April next, for the following supplies, viz: First.

1500 lbs Table Salt,

1500 lbs Table Salt,

1500 lbs Table Salt, and vegetables and fruits of almost every kind and variety are produced in great abundance. For pastoral purposes much of the land can acarcely be excelled in any part of the world. 3. The price of good farming land per acre, government or otherwise, and the condition of purchase? The pret price of Crown land is $1 25 per acre, open to pre-emption, but none at present for sale; farming lands in private hands may be had at almost any price from five to for y dollars per acre, according to location ep, etc.? Horses vary is price from $60 to $200; cows from $40 to $60; sheep, from $5 to $7 per head. 7. Some portions of the land is heavily timbered; the varieties of timber are given in the list of natural productions. 8. Are the inducements to farmers superior? Yes, to those who understand the business and have the means to provide the requisite stock and mechinery. 9. What inducements for mechanics, carpenters, masons, etc ? So far as wages is concerned, good; though employment is not always readily obtained. Mechanics' wages vary from $3 to $5 per day. 10. What inducement for farm laborers and others? every available source should be canvassed; inducement for farm laborers and others? but when paly one method is presented, I think some clowance should be made should that method be abnormal.

I am in that particular condition, I seek information respecting Vancouver Island, but herstofers have been unsuccessful as to assume a safety statement of education assumed as a free system of education assumed as a free system of education assumed as a free system of education assumed as a free system. water, and those who have had much thing of the country before I remove thither.

I believe that if correct statistics of the Island were more widely known, many would be induced to make it their home. The inforwork. Considering the newness of the country, however, we have some excellent roads both on the Island and Mainland. To sum up all in a few words, we would say that we have a very large country abundantly endowed with all those natural resources calculated to make it a wealthy and prosperous State; there is room enough and to spare for all who choose to come and try their fortunes here ; and after thirteen years' experience in the country, we have yet to see the industrious frugal man or woman that has failed to make a comfortable living as the re-ult of persevering energy and industry

LETTER PROM MAJOR WILLIAM DOWNTE UPON THE IMPRACTICABILITY OF BRIDGING BRITISH COLUMBIA WATERS FOR A RAILHOAD FROM THE MAINLAND TO VANCOUVER ISLAND.

DowNIEVILLE, CAL., March 13th, 1872. EDITOR STANDARD :- The British Colonist of January 31st, 1872, contains an article by the late Mr. Waddington upon the feasibility of bridging the railroad from the Mainland to Vancouver Island. If I thought any person the good people of Victoria with an article upon the old worn out subject of Bute Inlet either for a wagon road or railroad. But sir, at a time like the present, when facts are so valuable, to the surveying parties now at work, when low, easy passes in the mountains are the all absorbing topics of mountains are the all absorbing topics of people and the Parliament of the Dominion, looking forward with no little anxiety to hear

trict the past winter is said to have been an further the greatest and grandest enterprise and 1861, to find a pass in the Co-st Range and acquaintances. Amid the cheers there to snorten the distance to Cariboo, so that was almost a bush. There came, as it supplies could be got cheaper into the mines. A. McDonald, poor fellow, who was murdered by the iddians afterwards through the Bute a rough undertaking. It is not necessary wonder, and, perhaps, even with a religious here to narrate all the hair breadth escapes feeling, and some genuine sentiment mixed we had; how my cance got dashed to pieces, with all the conventional and merely fashion-indians all going out of sight, while I clung to a log and got ashore; nor did we turn day. They passed in a moment. There was then, but patched up the canoes and went ahead until we were fully satisfied that of humanity, which came surging irresistibly there was no chance for a waggon road te up the street and filled it, and threatened to Cariboo, as there is no natural pass in the

Just to show you how people will be fooled. While we were up the river hauling our canoes over portages and r ffles, Mr. Wadding ton's party came up to the head of the Inle and looked around a day or two, and located a flat for town lots, and returned to Victoria and reported a fine inlet runging far inland. with a fine lowe sue; and from what they had seen there was not a shadow of a doubt but what that was to be the road to Cariboo Of course the bait took well, and the party got paid for the favorable report upon water fronts, and cor er lots. The new town at the lulet was to be a big thing, and par ies were getting reidy in Victoria to start up to select th ir corner tots in the new town Just at this time 'Od Major Downie" drops into dered about a week since. The deed has marplot, and throwed a wet blanket over Victoria with his report of Bute Inlet, like their castles built in the air. Among all the titular functionaries, a really mportant man sometimes rode by. Mr. Disraeli was one—that dark Asian face as full of mystery as ever. Another was the late Emperor of France, balf stolid and all devilish cusping masking has face as plainly as ever, and the wax all backing the ends of his moustache, quite different from what it was acquainted with that part of British Columbia would answer the letter of Mr. Waddington, I assure you I would not at this time trouble The distinction of these people was a social or whose names are worth cataloguing. The distinction of these people was a social distinction; their merit is to be of the peerage, or to dwell in Belgravia and Mayfair, and they held in their hands parti-colored tickets of admission to St. Paul's, vouchers to eagle eyed policemen of their right to be on street and to pass Temple Bar, a dis ance far beyond our ken. A good many of them, I am very sure, did not reach that gloomy portal till past the hour when the printed law that would retard her march forward; cut monly well after his long illness-pale, hoose all the dead weights that would dead her back. Let the press do its duty; see that it cuts clean and deep, without fear or favor; the best interests of the country demand it at its hands.

To return to the subject matter in hand, you are aware sir, that I was the first party to evalore aware sir, that I was the first porty to explore of the street, among whose guests he recogthe rivers emptying into Bute Inlet, in 1859 nized, no doubt, scores of personal friends in a moment, an idea into the mind of the east throng that here was a young man who had had quite lately and very nearly escaped Inlet humbug, accompanied me; it was death, and they looked on him with a sort of

Mr. Waddington was bundred men in white robes rise; the distinthe man; he could see further through a guished but tall women in front of me stand on their chairs, and see nothing. This is too much, so I stand on my chair, all other highest peaks in the Coast Range, that was women follow the example. Had the royal nothing to him. If you will only take a look pew been raised four feet instead of two. at his letter in the Colonist, you will see everyone could have seen with perfect ease, but no Yankee was consulted. By dint of much gymnastic exercise I see the royal family, and am not impressed by the spectacle. I think of the "cost of royalty!" and gaze-upon the pensioners all in a row. The Queen is exceedingly plain; her sons are not in the least good looking; the Prince of Wales appears to better advantage than he has for Wallace, and other aspirants for Legislative some time, for the reason that he is thinner honors, telling the electors on the Island that the terminus of the Great Trans-Continuo means pale, however, seeming to have been no means pale, however, seeming to have been tanned by out door life, and appears less affected by the scene than any other member all electionering claptrap, in order to catch of his family, his eldest born excepted, who, votes. The parties are excusable if they have read the Waddington letters, concerning how the thing can be done and the Princess Alexandra, who is really pretty, and ladylike, bow their heads from the beginning to the end of the service, which fortunately is but three-quarters of am hour long. Open-glasses are brought to a focus on the Prince of Wales. A Te Deum is sung, which should be spelled tedium, for, composed by Mr Gosa, organist of St. Paul's, it is as pour a composition as one might expect, but is sung better than it deserves .- Smalley's Letter to N. [Ottawa Times.] There was an important significance at tached to the speech made by Sir liugh Allan at St. Jerome lately. In alluding to the Northern Colonization Railway project be

"He had looked upon it (the Korther Colonization Railway) merely as a coloniza-tion railway from Montreal to Ottawa. But as long as he thought that the project was confined to that he did not consider it necessary to take any part in it. But when British Columbia came into the Confederation the subject wore an entirely different as-pect. (Hear, bear.) As soon as the treat was made be saw the necessity of a railross cross the continent, and saw that the time would soon come when such a railway would have to be built and they would have to bestir themselves and carry it through. (Cheers.) After that he (Sir Hugh) did not long besitate. Since he had taken the pains to inform himself thoroughly on the whole question, he had come to the conclusion that without the Northern Colonization a road to of Scotland Yard gave them a right to enter; without the Northern Colonization a road to that is their affair. Before I let them all but that is their affair. Before I let them all pass I must not omit to any with a certain regret, though with no surprise, that the further the greatest and grandest enterprise of the age,—namely, a Canadian railway running down toghe twaters of the Pacific? Misrepresentation of Vancouver Island and British Columbia at home and abroad, has been its curse for the last fourteen years. Any sensible man would naturally suppose that the hatchet of discord, ought to be buried about this time, when the country is just emerging from a long struggle to maintain herself as a Province, and now that you are part and purcel of the great Dominion of Canada, give her a fair show in the race for future greatness; put overboard everything that would retard her march forward; cut loose all the dead weights that would discord. such a road would be the highway. In view of these things he could not understand how any one could hesitate for a moment to carry through such a work. He had, on his part determined to use all his energies to that end, and he was sure it would be accomplished." It is gratifying to know that a man of Sir Hugh Allan's business ability is likely to be concerned in carrying on this great national work. It is also gratifying to know that the energy displayed by the Dominion Government in making the preliminary surveys for the Pacific Ranway, renders it possible for railway men and capitalists to approach the subject with some reliable data to enable them to form an opinion as to its practice
